"Bains Deligny" Still in Use on Seine.

Paris—Parisians, when they take a notion to bathe, can splash around in the same baths patronized by the courtiers of Charles X, and later by the Emperor Napoleon III himself.

These baths, known as the Bains Deligny, are towed up the Seine each spring and anchored in front of the number of deputies in winter they have taken down the river and out of sight in order to avoid the heavy stabling tax.

The Deligny baths, Turkish in design, were built between 1801 and 1810 and are among the few open-air baths that have remained in Paris since the coming of modern plumbing. At the one time it was the great Roman bathe in the Seine, there were no fewer than thirty baths on the river. The popularity of outdoor bathing ended the fashion. The ventilating insufficient time for toilet and cooking gave up the bathing habit. The reign of Charles X was the height of time for the "Bains Deligny" or in the aristocracy used to say. There was a hairdresser always in attendance whose strongly used words "Bennott" allow your hair distinguishable from schools becau paint put on the time. Democrats Gain

The result of the election Tuesday is pleasing to Democrats. Indications are that great gains have been made in enemy strongholds.

In the ninth congressional district of Virginia Hon. George Peery won his seat again by an increased majority.

In New York the wonderful personal hold on the people of Al Smith swept the State and elected him Governor for the 4th time, and elects along with him R. F. Wagner to U. S Senate instead of a Republican.

Democrats regard the signal victory of Senator Welsh over Senator Butler in the hot Massachusettes fight for U. S. Senator as a rebuke to the Coolidge administration, as Senator Butler's fight was the only one in which the President took a hand.

At this hour it looks like Democrats have increased the senatorial family at Washington by seven and the congressional delegation by thirteen. These increases however, will not give the Democrats a majority in either branch of Congress. But it is claimed the upper branch of Congress will be about a tie with one senator. A farm labor representative holding the deciding vote. Although our own Congressman Mr. Tucker was returned without opposition, we are dissappointed in the turn-out of the vote.

The vote in this county is less than one fourth and in other counties it is even less. This is a dangerous habit to fall into. Just why so many people wait for some leader to urge them to do their duty is past our understanding. A safe rule is to acquire the habit of voting and keep it up, whether you vote right or wrong your county is entitled to an expression from every voter.

We will rejoice to see every obstacle removed from the right of a white man or woman to v te.

All glory to those who took part in the victory Tuesday.

In its native home in the Amazo were valley, as well as in the plantations Indomalaya, the Brazilian rubber tree ng a sticks very close to the equator, where the normal cool nights and the occational frosts of the Florida climate are unknown.

Experiments That Came to Grief.

Experimental plantations of rubber seedlings in Florida twenty years ago all came to grief, and last winter an unusual cold snap severely injured most of the seedlings at the Department of Agriculture's experimental farm at Coconut Grove and killed a part of them outright. It has, therefore, been assumed that the Brazilian species is extrasensitive to cold and would not survive in even a subtropical climate. To all this, the discovery of a twenty-foot-high tree, with a trunk between three and four inches thick, has proved very upsetting.

An outcome of this indication of hardiness, on the part of at least some of the Brazilian trees, of more practical and immediate importance than attempts to grow rubber in Florida, will be the investigation of the possible adaptability of the species for cultivation in the border-line tropics, such as Mexico and the West Indies.

Hevea Hardier Than Castilla.

There is already some indication that Hevea, the Brazilian tree, is hardier than the Mexican rubber tree, Castilla, for last winter's frost at Coconut Grove had worse effects on Castillas than it had on seedlings of Hevea in neighboring rows. Meantime, the department is continuing research in other parts of the tropics, to find Hevea trees, similar to the original specimen, which people in the Amazon Valley have been cutting out as ornamentals.

Red Cross Life-Saving Service Is Nation-Wide

Scarcity of water apparently has no effect on interest in water rescue. Arizona, popularly associated with wide desert stretches and cactus, has gone in with enthusiasm for the Red Cross Life-Saving program.

The building of new irrigation dams is rapidly transforming Arizona into a swimming State despite popular conception of that country. In more than 500 swimming Institutes conducted by the Red Cross the last summer, life-saving instruction was given by the Red Cross.

During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1926, 7,145 men, 5,405 women, and 14,713 juniors passed the rigid tests of the Red Cross Life-Saving Service, and were awarded insignia. The total for the year of 29,266 represents an increase of 6,374 over the previous year. The total membership of this corps at the close of the year was 189,078.

The Tenth Annual Roll Call from November 11 to 25 is an opportunity to encourage these efforts through membership in the Red Cross.

Serious handicaps appear on the horizon for the dark tobacco market this year, and the farmers in most cases are in great need of funds, which fact is likely to cause a rush of the weed to market. Buyers will have all kinds of excuses to offer for the low prices which inevitably appear to be at hand. There is no bright spot on the dark market, as we can see it, and the great tobacco centre is facing ruinous prices for the best crop of a decade. Let us hope for the best and that there will be no glut.
